Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Content Marketing Manager role with a strong focus on SEO-led digital media growth and scalable content operations. I bring over 3 years of hands-on experience building high-volume editorial ecosystems where search performance, brand consistency, and execution discipline matter every day.

In my current role at EssentiallySports, I own content strategy across editorial, video, social, and newsletters for a fast-moving digital publisher. I work directly on keyword research, search intent mapping, internal linking, and on-page SEO, while translating analytics into practical decisions that improve visibility and engagement. My work sits at the intersection of SEO, content operations, and brand standards, ensuring growth does not compromise quality or trust.

I lead cross-functional teams of writers, editors, designers, and video contributors through structured planning and review cycles. I focus on clarity, execution speed, and measurable outcomes rather than volume alone. I also collaborate closely with SEO, growth, and design teams to align content priorities with platform performance and audience behavior.

I have experience working with external stakeholders, including athlete agencies and client partners, and handling live event coverage and interview-driven content. This has strengthened my ability to manage brand-safe publishing, deadlines, and multi-stakeholder coordination in high-pressure environments.

I am seeking a Germany-based role where content strategy supports long-term organic growth, strong editorial governance, and cross-team collaboration. I am comfortable working in structured, metrics-driven environments and adapting to EU market expectations around quality, compliance, and execution.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my experience in SEO-driven content systems and people leadership can contribute to your team.

Sincerely,

Aravind S Menon
