Dear Hiring Manager,

I am applying for the Key Account Manager / Customer Success Manager role in your payments business. Across my tenure managing enterprise merchants at PhonePe, I have owned complex accounts end to end activation, adoption, incident management, renewals, and expansion while partnering closely with product, operations, and support. I build pragmatic plans, instrument KPIs, and resolve issues fast so customers realize value and stay loyal.

In my current role, I manage strategic portfolios across EDC terminals and QR payments. I translate executive goals into quarterly account plans and QBRs, align stakeholders, and remove friction in onboarding and day-to-day operations. I rely on CRM and BI scorecards to monitor activation, GMV, churn risk, SLA breaches, and MTTR. That rigor helps me prioritize the few levers that matter: stabilizing incidents quickly, accelerating time-to-value, and identifying expansion paths across locations and use cases. The result is durable growth and predictable renewals.

Germany's payments market values dependable execution, clear stakeholder communication, and measurable outcomes. That is precisely where I add value. I bring an operator's mindset, a customer-first approach, and the discipline to convert data into action. I am available to relocate, adapt to local processes quickly, and work in multicultural, international teams. My goal is straightforward: help your enterprise customers adopt faster, stay stable within SLA, and expand with confidence.

Thank you for your time. I would welcome the chance to discuss how my experience can support your growth and customer outcomes. I am available for interviews at short notice.

Sincerely,

Paindla Kiran Kumar
