Dear Hiring Manager,

With 10+ years spanning digital operations, e-commerce, and end-to-end campaign management, I bring a strong record of delivering high-quality, on-brand digital experiences while improving team throughput and stakeholder satisfaction. I'm adept at building scalable processes, leading cross-functional teams, and using data and Gen-AI tools to accelerate execution—capabilities I'm excited to apply to [Role Title] at [Company Name].

At Epsilon, I manage digital campaign operations for global businesses—owning asset setup, content management, and sample coordination, and partnering closely with creative, engineering, and client teams. I've established standardized workflows, templates, and style guides that improved consistency at scale; led training and performance analysis programs; and introduced Gen-AI assistants (e.g., ChatGPT, Claude) to streamline QA notes, briefs, and routine content ops. Recognitions including a Magnitude Award and two Bravo Awards reflect sustained delivery and effective team coordination.

Previously at Lucini&Lucini Communications, I ran the full campaign lifecycle—from requirements and cost negotiations through HTML/CSS email builds, A/B testing, deployment, and reporting—while maintaining strong client communications. Earlier roles at MetricStream (web design/content) and TCS (Agile delivery and responsive design) strengthened my technical fluency (HTML/CSS/JS), project scoping and budgeting, and my ability to translate business goals into executable roadmaps across functions.

I'm drawn to [Company Name] for its focus on customer-centric digital experiences and operational excellence. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my background in campaign operations, process design, and people leadership can help [Team/Org] ship faster with higher quality and clear, auditable workflows.

Sincerely,

Wyneth K. Gokul
