Dear Hiring Manager,

With over 9 years of experience in Learning & Development, knowledge management, and HR strategy across global organizations, I am interested in L&D and HR roles in Germany that focus on capability building, leadership development, and scalable learning systems. My work consistently blends instructional design, LMS governance, and stakeholder alignment to create programs that improve performance and support business growth.

In my recent role as Senior Manager – Knowledge Management (L&D) at eClerx, I led the build and governance of the learning catalog and implemented an ADDIE-based intake process that cut ad hoc learning requests by 30 percent. Cornerstone operations sat with my team, where role-based assignments, better data hygiene, and targeted nudges improved course completions and made reporting audits ready for ISMS and QMS. I also launched onboarding and analyst development tracks that reduced time to productivity by about 15 percent and strengthened manager confidence in new hires.

Program innovation is a core part of how I work. At eClerx, I delivered an immersive metaverse-based learning pilot for scenario practice that raised learner satisfaction to 4.6 out of 5 and improved recall in post-assessments. Earlier roles at Jio Studios, Priceline, and GlobalLogic involved setting up LMS workflows, running mid-management and behavioral workshops, standardizing playbooks, and coordinating vendor-led programs while keeping satisfaction scores and compliance in focus. These experiences taught me how to balance strategic design with hands-on operations in fast-moving environments.

Germany's strong emphasis on structured development, quality, and inclusion aligns well with my background in leadership programs, DEI initiatives, and global rollouts. I am ready to relocate, integrate quickly into cross-cultural teams, and help build learning ecosystems that are measurable, compliant, and genuinely engaging. I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my experience in L&D strategy, LMS and content operations, and leadership development can support your people's agenda.

Sincerely,
Ravisha Tandon
