Dear Hiring Manager,

With 10+ years in supply chain operations, import management and logistics coordination, I am seeking a role in Germany where I can support stable, compliant and cost-efficient cross-border flows. My current position as Senior Executive, Supply Chain and Import Operations at PRICOL Logistics involves end-to-end ownership of import shipments, vendor management and performance reporting that align closely with German job descriptions for Supply Chain Operations Specialist / Import Export roles.

In my present role, I lead import operations for 50+ shipments per month, coordinating suppliers, freight forwarders and internal teams against agreed schedules and SLAs. I manage documentation, tracking and exceptions in ERP-driven logistics processes to keep data complete, audit-ready and useful for KPI reporting. Recent work includes benchmarking freight routes and negotiating with logistics partners to reduce cost per TEU lane by around 12%, while standardising reports and follow-up routines to improve on-time delivery and cut manual coordination effort by roughly 20%.

Earlier experience at Accenture and Atos Origin sharpened my ability to work in structured, international environments. At Accenture, I supported supply chain and operations projects, aligning supplier terms, timelines and SLAs, coordinating milestones and risks, and preparing client-facing status reports. At Atos Origin, I worked as an Operations Analyst on software and operations projects, gathering and documenting requirements, supporting implementation and maintaining clear process documentation and KPI visibility for stakeholders. This mix of logistics operations and project-based work helps me interface effectively with planning, IT, finance and operations teams in integrated supply chain organisations.

German employers value reliability, transparency and process discipline. I bring a proven habit of maintaining clean shipment data, clear communication and structured reporting around KPIs such as on-time delivery, cost per shipment and issue closure rates. I am comfortable operating in ERP-based environments, collaborating with cross-functional stakeholders and continuously improving standard operating procedures. I speak English at full professional proficiency (C1) and German at working proficiency (around B1), and I am prepared to further strengthen my German language skills to support customer and partner communication.

I would welcome the opportunity to discuss how my experience in import operations, EXIM support, vendor management and KPI-driven logistics can contribute to your supply chain organisation in Germany.

Sincerely,
Venkat Ram Prasad Yanamandram
